You know what I like most about the stars? You look at em – at al of them up there, and you just know, there's gotta be something more than...life. There has to be. I'm not scared of dying really. It's more that I'm afraid of...time. And not having enough of it. Time to figure out who I'm supposed to be. To find my place in the world before I have to leave it. I'm afraid of what I'll miss.
